Big-Cat Incidents in the United States

The following is a partial list of incidents involving captive big cats in the United States since 1990. These incidents have resulted in the deaths of over 130 big cats and 25 humans as well as the injury of more than 280 humans. Contact PETA for documentation.

December 30, 2018/Burlington, North Carolina: A 22-year-old intern working at the Conservators Center was reportedly killed by a lion named Matthai while cleaning an enclosure. The animal had managed to escape the area to which he had been confined and entered the same space as the intern, before killing her. Sheriff’s deputies apparently shot and killed him in order to retrieve the intern’s body.

May 16, 2017/Abilene, Texas: Estrella, a jaguar at the Abilene Zoo, escaped from an enclosure and was found atop an enclosure holding spider monkeys. She reached inside and seriously injured a monkey, who then needed to be euthanized. Estrella was tranquilized by a dart gun and put in a holding pen.

January 15, 2017/Sumpter Township, Michigan: Police were looking into reports of a large feline in the area. A resident claimed to have spotted the cat on three occasions and managed to videotape the animal. An exotic-animal expert reviewed the video and determined that the cat was possibly a cougar who had probably been kept illegally and escaped.

December 13, 2016/Miami, Florida: A tiger at Zoo Miami bit off the tip of a zookeeper’s finger when the keeper broke protocol and fed the animal through the bars of the enclosure.

October 25, 2016/Pensacola, Florida: Tiger trainer Vicenta Pages was attacked by a tiger during a performance at the Pensacola Interstate Fair in front of dozens of elementary school students. She was bitten, clawed, and dragged by the tiger and sustained substantial injuries to her leg, according to news reports. She was taken to a local hospital for treatment.

October 1, 2016/Spearfish, South Dakota: A tiger at Spirit of the Hills Wildlife Sanctuary escaped through an open gate and bit the facility’s founder several times. Local law-enforcement officers shot and killed the animal.

June 16, 2016/Cave Junction, Oregon: A zookeeper at Great Cats World Park was attacked by a tiger after a gate was left unlocked to the tiger’s den.

June 7, 2016/Salt Lake City, Utah: A leopard climbed a fence and escaped from an enclosure at the Hogle Zoo during peak visiting hours. The facility went on lockdown and isolated guests until the leopard was tranquilized and taken to the zoo’s hospital.

April 21, 2016/Houston, Texas: A tiger was found wandering the streets in a suburb of Houston. The animal was being kept as a “pet” and escaped while being moved during a flood.

April 15, 2016/West Palm Beach, Florida: A zookeeper died after being attacked by a tiger at the Palm Beach Zoo. She had been preparing for her routine “Tiger Talk” behind the scenes in an enclosure where the tigers ate and slept.

November 1, 2015/Omaha, Nebraska: A woman sustained a severe hand injury after breaking into Omaha’s Henry Doorly Zoo & Aquarium to pet a tiger.

September 13, 2015/Charlestown, Indiana: According to a USDA inspection report, members of the public, including an 8- or 9-year-old girl, were bitten in at least two different incidents during “Tiger Playtime”—during which four 16-week-old tiger cubs weighing 35 to 40 pounds were allowed to interact with approximately 40 to 50 members of the public at Wildlife in Need, Inc.

September 6, 2015/Indianapolis, Indiana: A cheetah named Pounce was discovered lying in a landscaped area between the exhibit barrier and guests at the Indianapolis Zoo, prompting a zoo-wide lockdown. An hour and a half later, the zoo tweeted that the cheetahs were back in holding cells and that staff and guests were safe.

September 3, 2015/Hemet, California: A 3-month-old declawed tiger cub was found wandering the streets of a neighborhood and was turned in to the Ramona Humane Society. The 25-pound cub, who was later named Himmel, was transferred to and provided a permanent home at the sanctuary Lion, Tigers & Bears. Himmel was believed to have been someone’s “pet.”

August 17, 2015/Detroit, Michigan: A tiger got loose in the Packard Automotive Plant during a photo shoot. The tiger, along with two wolves and a bobcat, came from Bozeman-based Animals of Montana. After the tiger got into a stairwell, attempts were made to scare the animal out with a weed whacker. The trainers were eventually able to get him or her back into a cage. Although the photographer had permission for the two-day shoot at the plant, he hadn’t mentioned that he was bringing the animals.

May 1, 2015/Flint, Michigan: According to a USDA inspection report, a 50-pound cougar being exhibited by The Creature Conservancy became agitated and leaped off a platform in the direction of the general public. The handlers were able to restrain him with leads attached to two collars on his neck, but he remained agitated and attempted to strike the handlers. The report stated that the cougar was too large, fast, and unpredictable to be exhibited to the public in this manner.

April 30, 2015/Oklahoma City, Oklahoma: A Sumatran tiger escaped from a primary enclosure at the Oklahoma City Zoo and was loose for 20 minutes. After being spotted in an enclosed space between two exhibits, she was tranquilized.

April 15, 2015/Seattle, Washington: A 6-month-old lion cub escaped from an enclosure at the Woodland Park Zoo after a keeper left the door open. He was loose in a service area for about an hour before being recaptured.

October 22, 2014/Gentry, Arkansas: A visitor to the Wild Wilderness Drive-Through Safari was either bitten or scratched by an uncontrolled 12-week-old lion cub during a park-allowed public interaction. The person later sought medical attention for the injury.

October 10, 2014/Little Rock, Arkansas: A 3-year-old child fell into a jaguar exhibit at the Little Rock Zoo. Two jaguars attacked the child, and fire extinguishers were used to keep the jaguars back as the boy was retrieved. He was taken to the hospital and listed in critical condition with a depressed skull fracture, an extensive scalp laceration, and puncture wounds. He was released from the hospital a week later.

October 9, 2014/St. Paul, Minnesota: A 23-year-old man was clawed by a cougar after climbing a guardrail at the Como Park Zoo.
October 6, 2014/Jupiter, Florida: A construction worker who was working at a large-cat breeding facility lost his thumb after he stuck his hand in a cage containing a tiger and the animal mauled it. The tiger belongs to Mario Tabraue, owner of Zoological Wildlife Foundation in Miami.

August 23, 2014/Dallas, Texas: A zookeeper at the Dallas Zoo was attacked by a lioness after failing to secure the door to an enclosure. He was hospitalized with a puncture wound to his back as well as scratches.

August 19, 2014/Charlestown, Indiana: During a U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) inspection of Wildlife in Need, the inspector observed several incidents that took place during “Tiger Playtime,” when approximately 30 members of the public sit in an enclosed area and are allowed to interact freely with two tiger cubs. An attendee was pawed and mouthed in the face, one child was bitten on the top of his thigh, another child was grabbed from behind and both sides of the head and ears were mouthed by a cub, and the inspector was bitten on the back, resulting in broken skin and bleeding.

July 26, 2014/Baldwin Township, Michigan: A caged lion at Sunrise Side Nature Trail and Exotic Park bit part of a visitor’s finger off when she attempted to pet the animal.

April 8, 2014/Jackson, New Jersey: A few students were nipped by a couple of 3-month-old lion cubs while they were visiting Six Flags Great Adventure as part of an internship.

January 17, 2014/Charlestown, Indiana: According to a USDA inspection report, during an inspection of Wildlife in Need, Inc., the licensee admitted that people had been scratched and nipped by tiger cubs during “Tiger Baby Playtime.” The inspector noted that the cubs were “too large, too strong and aggressive” and that the licensee must stop using them for direct-contact exhibitions. The animals used in the event were approximately 15 to 16 weeks old.

January 3, 2014/Spring Hill, Florida: Savannah, a 7-year-old lioness, escaped from an enclosure at the Survival Outreach Sanctuary. She was recaptured on the facility’s grounds and relocated to a new cage.

December 22, 2013/San Diego, California: A female tiger was killed at the San Diego Zoo during a mating attempt. The male tiger grabbed her by the neck, severely injuring her spinal cord and causing damage to her respiratory system, killing her instantly.

December 14, 2013/Hattiesburg, Mississippi: A jaguar escaped from a holding area at the Hattiesburg Zoo after staffers failed to close and lock the gate properly after cleaning the exhibit. The animal was sedated with a tranquilizer dart and returned to the holding area within about 50 minutes.

December 8, 2013/Montgomery, Alabama: A tiger escaped from the enclosure that she was being held in at the Montgomery Zoo by swimming through an underwater break in the fencing into a neighboring exhibit. She had been out of the enclosure for about 30 minutes when she was shot with a tranquilizer dart and returned to night quarters until the fence could be repaired.

December 2, 2013/Duluth, Minnesota: A zookeeper’s finger was bitten while feeding the Siberian tigers at the Lake Superior Zoo. The finger remained attached but was seriously mangled.
November 9, 2013/Sherwood, Oregon:
The head keeper at WildCat Haven Sanctuary was killed by a cougar inside the enclosure that the animal was housed in. The 36-year-old keeper was apparently the only person at the sanctuary at the time of the attack.

October 5, 2013/Wynnewood, Oklahoma:
A tiger severely mauled the arm of an employee at The Garold Wayne Interactive Zoological Park after she put her hand in the enclosure. She was airlifted to a hospital, where the limb was able to be reattached.

June 21, 2013/Clay County, Indiana:
A worker at the Exotic Feline Rescue Center was attacked by a tiger while cleaning out the cage. She was admitted to a hospital’s intensive care unit and listed in critical condition. Indiana Occupational Safety and Health Administration investigators fined the center $69,000 for safety violations.

June 20, 2013/Charlestown, Indiana:
A woman and her boyfriend, concerned for their domestic cats’ safety after other small animals had been attacked in their neighborhood, shot what they thought was a bobcat. The animal was later identified as an approximately 9-month-old leopard, whom authorities suspected came from Wildlife in Need.

April 21, 2013/Salina, Kansas:
A woman came face to face with a tiger in a women’s bathroom after the animal escaped from trainers at the Isis Shrine circus. The tiger was recaptured and returned to a cage.

March 6, 2013/Dunlap, California:
A volunteer intern was attacked and killed by a 550-pound, 4-year-old lion named Cous Cous, who broke the intern’s neck with a paw swipe and then mauled her body. It was believed that Cous Cous escaped his cage by using his paw to lift a partially open door. Sheriff’s deputies shot and killed him.

February 28, 2013/Litchfield Park, Arizona:
The USDA cited Wildlife World Zoo for allowing a 3-month-old tiger cub to run throughout a local television studio. The inspector noted that the cub was seen biting the clothing of an offstage handler while the lead handler was seen with scratches and bite marks on his arms. The host of the television program was also seen pulling at the tail of the tiger.

February 2013/Troutman, North Carolina:
A man was bitten on the nose by a 40-pound white tiger cub when he was allowed direct contact with the animal at Zootastic Park of Lake Norman. Apparently, the man was lying on the floor face to face with the cub when the incident happened.

September 21, 2012/Bronx, New York:
A 25-year-old man at the Bronx Zoo jumped out of the monorail into the exhibit housing the tigers and was badly mauled by one of them.

June 6, 2012/Brooksville, Florida:
A cougar escaped from the Gard Zoo and killed a neighbor’s “pet” beagle.

January 2012/Calhan, Colorado:
According to the owner of Serenity Springs Wildlife Center, a trespasser scaled a 10-foot fence lined with barbed wire and cut a hole in the fence surrounding a tiger enclosure, allowing three tigers to escape and wander around the compound. Later that month, a couple was seen inside the compound sticking their hands inside the cougar cage, trying to pet the animal. After being confronted by workers, the couple jumped back over the 10-foot fence and drove off.

December 1, 2011/Wynnewood, Oklahoma:
According to a USDA inspection report, a 3-month-old tiger cub, who was being exhibited on a leash at The Garold Wayne Interactive Zoological Park, jumped on a small child and knocked him down. The child was scratched as a result.

November 27, 2011/Cincinnati, Ohio: An employee of G.W. Exotic Animal Foundation was scratched during an exhibit in which people were allowed to take pictures with tiger cubs at a mall. The employee said, “There was blood everywhere. … It was just a total, total mess.”

November 9, 2011/Seattle, Washington: A lion got out of a den at the Woodland Park Zoo, but the animal didn’t get far before being tranquilized in a service building.

October 19, 2011/Zanesville, Ohio: Eighteen tigers, 17 lions, and three mountain lions were shot and killed by police after they were let loose from Muskingum County Animal Farm by owner Terry Thompson, who then shot and killed himself.

October 16, 2011/Odessa, Texas: A 4-year-old boy was mauled by his aunt’s “pet” mountain lion.

August 11, 2011/Halifax Township, Pennsylvania: An employee of Lake Tobias Wildlife Park was bitten after sticking her hand inside a cage to pet a tiger.

July 21, 2011/Warsaw, New York: Three tigers owned by Natalie Cainan and generally used for circuses escaped from a transport enclosure, and two crossed a barrier fence and bit a horse in the next trailer. The tigers were loose for approximately 30 minutes before being contained again.

July 17, 2011/Manchester, Iowa: An adult tiger attacked Tom Sellner, the owner of the Cricket Hollow Zoo, while Sellner was feeding the animal at his facility. Sellner was flown to an Iowa City hospital after sustaining lacerations to his head and torso.

May 6, 2011/Wichita, Kansas: A 7-year-old boy on a field trip with Linwood Elementary School was mauled by an Amur leopard when the child climbed over a guardrail at the Sedgwick County Zoo. According to a witness, the leopard remained inside the cage but had his “claws into the little boy’s face, and [was] gnawing his neck.” A man reportedly had to kick the cat in the head to get the cat to release the boy, who was later taken to a hospital with face and neck injuries.

May 2011/West Palm Beach, Florida: A maintenance worker at the Palm Beach Zoo was treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises to his back that he received from a tiger after he fell against a mesh cage holding the animal in a restricted area of the zoo.

November 27, 2010/Readstown, Wisconsin: The USDA cited the licensees of Kickapoo Bobcat & Lynx, exotic-animal breeders, for failing to demonstrate adequate experience and knowledge of a wild animal when a volunteer was scratched on the face by a bobcat while trying to place water in the enclosure.

November 19, 2010/San Antonio, Texas: A cougar escaped from the Wild Animal Orphanage while cages were being moved. Law enforcement officers searched for the animal for eight hours, during which time the cougar attacked and nearly killed a puppy. Area schools were put on alert, and recess was canceled at the elementary school. The cougar was ultimately tranquilized and recaptured.

October 22, 2010/Rock Springs, Wisconsin: A volunteer at Wisconsin Big Cat Rescue and Educational Center was bitten by an adult tiger who grabbed the man’s arm and pulled it into the cage while the man was providing the big cat with water. Other volunteers helped the victim extract his arm from the cage, and the man was flown by helicopter to a hospital, where he was treated for puncture wounds, a five-inch gash on his upper arm, and torn tendons.

October 2, 2010/Idaville, Indiana: Two 900- to 1,000-pound tigers escaped from a cage at a private menagerie called Great Cats of Indiana. The tigers pushed out the corner post of a cage, which was held together with approximately 10 16-penny nails. The tigers were reportedly acting aggressively and were shot by the facility’s owner. One tiger was killed after being shot four times in the head and twice in the body with a .223 rifle and twice in body with a 12-gauge shotgun. The other sustained a wound to the abdomen from a 12-gauge shotgun. The tigers were loose for at least 13 hours before they were shot.

September 5, 2010/Essex County, New Jersey: A leopard escaped from an enclosure at the Turtle Back Zoo and hid behind a retaining wall in a zoo service building. Visitors were moved to safe areas and the zoo was closed for approximately 45 minutes while the leopard was sedated and recaptured.

September 1, 2010/Las Vegas, Nevada: Numerous visitors looked on as an adult male lion attacked a trainer at the MGM Grand lion habitat. The victim was treated at a hospital and received stitches for a bite on the leg.

August 28, 2010/Miami, Florida: While chasing an escaped gibbon, a 500-pound tiger jumped over a 12-foot fence and escaped from an enclosure at Jungle Island. At one point, the tiger came face-to-face with a 2-year-old toddler. More than 100 park visitors were ushered into a dark barn for protection. Four people were hurt during the chaos and were treated for minor injuries. A fifth person was transported to a hospital after having a panic attack.

April 23, 2010/Rockwell, North Carolina: A 100-pound tiger broke through plastic glass while being loaded onto a trailer at Tiger World, an unaccredited zoo. For several moments, the escaped tiger was on a leash but not under the control of a handler. The tiger passed 20 to 30 feet directly in front of two families with young children, all of whom ran and hid behind a cash-register area. The USDA later ordered Tiger World to pay a $2,571 penalty for this incident.

April 15, 2010/Beltrami County, Minnesota: Two 100-pound adolescent African lions bumped open a gate and escaped from an enclosure at Paul Bunyan’s Animal Land. The two lions were found wrestling with a dog in the front yard of a home in a residential neighborhood approximately two blocks away.

April 2010/Brown County, Ohio: A cougar who had been purchased as a “pet” at a flea market escaped and remained on the loose a month later.

February 19, 2010/Wellington, Florida: A jaguar at the Panther Ridge Conservation Center grabbed a woman’s hand and tore off her thumb when the woman wrapped her fingers around a part of an enclosure. This was at least the third dangerous incident at the facility in the past five years. (See March 29, 2008/Wellington, Florida, and February 26, 2005/Wellington, Florida.)

October 10, 2009/Cleveland, Ohio: An adult clouded leopard escaped from an enclosure at the Cleveland Metroparks Zoo when a wire in the cage broke. The leopard was tranquilated and recaptured.
Big-Cat Incidents in the United States

July 30, 2009/Las Vegas, Nevada: A 400-pound tiger belonging to the Fercos Brothers magic act escaped while being walked on a leash outside the owners’ gated property. The tiger ran after a rabbit, causing Tony Fercos to fall and drop the leash. Police responded to reports from local residents about a tiger wandering the streets, and the animal was found in a resident’s backyard. The owners cornered the tiger and returned him to a cage.

May 25, 2009/Columbiana County, Ohio: A 10-year-old girl was attacked by a “pet” cougar while visiting the home of Chris Joseph, a family friend who owned several African lions and cougars. A young male cougar grabbed and released the child’s arm at least three times when she put her hand and arm into a cage containing two of these large predators. In order to release the girl from the cat’s jaws, the friend had to remove a fan that was in front of an opening and crawl into the cage with the animals. The girl was rushed to a local hospital and then airlifted to Children’s Hospital in Pittsburgh. A USDA inspector cited owner Matt Joseph for two direct noncompliances in relation to this incident and warned that because the gate to the barrier fence, which is also the perimeter fence, was unlocked, “[a]nyone could access these animals when the owners are not at home.”

May 24, 2009/Great Bend, Kansas: A 150-pound cougar escaped from an enclosure at the Great Bend Zoo when a zookeeper left a door open. Zoo visitors were evacuated and the cougar was shot and killed by police because the animal became aggressive and tranquilizer darts were not readily available.

May 24, 2009/Memphis, Tennessee: A zookeeper at the Memphis Zoo was bitten by a 3-year-old tiger who escaped into a corridor through unlocked doors. The keeper was taken to a hospital for a bite to his leg. The tiger was sedated and returned to a cage.

May 2, 2009/Osceola County, Florida: A pregnant cougar owned by Jungle Adventure Park escaped and ran into nearby woods when she was being moved from one cage to another. Officials from the fish and wildlife commission and the Osceola County Sheriff’s Office searched unsuccessfully for the cougar.

April 24, 2009/Calhan, Colorado: A tiger bit a volunteer on the arm while the man was cleaning cages at Serenity Springs Wildlife Center. The volunteer was taken by ambulance to a hospital.

April 17, 2009/Jacksonville, Florida: A jaguar at the Jacksonville Zoo escaped from an enclosure through a hole in the fence. The hole may have been made by a groundskeeper. The jaguar was captured in a net and returned to the enclosure.

February 21, 2009/Oakley, Kansas: One of three lions in the private menagerie of Jeffrey Harsh attacked a man who put his arm into the cage. Harsh reportedly beat the lion with a steel pipe so that she would release the man. The victim sustained deep lacerations to both arms and was taken to a hospital in Denver for surgery.

February 11, 2009/Omaha, Nebraska: A veterinarian at the Henry Doorly Zoo was bitten by a tiger while performing a routine medical examination of the animal. The 200-pound anesthetized tiger bit the veterinarian’s right forearm three times, and the veterinarian was taken to the hospital in serious condition.

February 2, 2009/Troy, Alabama: A child was clawed by a leopard at the McClelland Critters zoo when the owner of the facility took visitors behind the barrier that separates the animals from the public.
January 18, 2009/Thurmont, Maryland: An animal-care worker at Catoctin Wildlife Preserve and Zoo was attacked by one or possibly two jaguars after she failed to secure the area in which they were enclosed before working in an adjacent area. Both jaguars entered the area, and the nearly 200-pound male jaguar and possibly also the female jaguar attacked the woman. A fire extinguisher was sprayed at the male jaguar to fend him off. Emergency medical technicians responded to the incident, and the victim was taken to the Maryland Shock Trauma Center. She spent 10 days in the hospital for injuries to her face and upper body. Both jaguars were placed in quarantine for one month.

January 18, 2009/Ingram, Texas: A 330-pound “pet” tiger owned by Anke Leitner escaped from an enclosure and was discovered in the residential backyard of a 79-year-old woman. The tiger was shot with a tranquilizer dart and recaptured.

January 8, 2009/Salem, Oregon: During a USDA inspection, exhibitor James Wise was demonstrating to the inspector how he gave an adult male tiger a pill. When Wise turned around, the tiger lunged at him, bit his forearm, and pushed him into a fence. Wise hit the tiger on the face until he released his grip long enough for Wise to escape the enclosure.

December 12, 2008/Las Vegas, Nevada: Numerous visitors looked on as a lion attacked and bit a trainer on the leg during a feeding at the MGM Grand lion habitat. Another trainer intervened by hitting the lion on the nose. The victim sustained injuries requiring stitches.

December 9, 2008/Albion, Indiana: A 350- to 400-pound Bengal tiger escaped from an enclosure at the Black Pine Animal Park when a keeper accidentally left a door open. The tiger was seen running on a local firefighter’s farm. Park employees, sheriff’s deputies, firefighters, conservation officers, and local and state police were called in, and thermal imaging equipment was used to aid in the search, which lasted nearly seven hours. Two tranquilizer darts had no effect on the tiger, who eventually returned to the park on her own and was coaxed into a cage.

November 29, 2008/Jacksonville, Florida: Two bobcats at the Jacksonville Zoo escaped from an enclosure and into the zookeepers’ work area when a keeper left the enclosure door open. One of the bobcats was able to escape onto zoo grounds through another door that had been left open to the outside. The zoo was placed on lockdown and visitors were required to stay inside shops and restaurants. After nearly an hour, the bobcat was tranquilized and recaptured.

November 29, 2008/Pocahontas County, West Virginia: A 250- to 300-pound “pet” Bengal tiger escaped from an exotic-animal farm owned by David Cassell after squeezing through a hole in chain-link cage fencing. When employees at a local ski resort saw the animal’s footprints, county and state officials were notified. The tiger was tracked into the Monongahela National Forest, where Cassell ultimately shot and killed her.

November 16, 2008/Luray, Virginia: A 16-year-old employee at the Luray Zoo was attacked by an adult tiger as she attempted to pet the animal while giving a tour to a group of visitors. The tiger reportedly pulled the girl’s arm into the cage, causing severe injuries to her left hand and arm. The girl’s finger had to be amputated.

November 15, 2008/Dade County, Florida: A 16-year-old girl was mauled by a 150-pound cougar at the private menagerie of Alan Rigerman. The animal pinned the girl to the ground and clenched his jaws around her head. A neighbor freed the girl by punching and kicking at the cougar. The victim underwent extensive surgery to repair a large gash in the back of her neck.

October 30, 2008/Atlanta, Georgia: One of two 1-year-old cheetahs who were being transported in the cargo hold of a plane from Wildlife Safari Park in Winston, Oregon, to the Memphis Zoo in Tennessee escaped from a travel crate. An airline baggage worker in Atlanta opened the plane’s cargo door and found the cheetah running loose amid the luggage. The plane was moved into a closed airport hangar, and both cheetahs were tranquilized and taken to the Atlanta zoo for a few days before continuing their trip to Memphis.

October 30, 2008/Colorado Springs, Colorado: Tigers being exhibited by Serenity Springs Wildlife Center at a party were given insufficient distance and/or barriers from the public, allowing one the opportunity to scratch a person walking past the enclosure that the tigers were being kept in.

October 29, 2008/Broken Arrow, Oklahoma: A volunteer was attacked by a 1,000-pound liger (a cross between a lion and a tiger) while feeding the animal at Safari’s Wildlife Sanctuary. The man sustained puncture wounds to his neck and upper back as well as trauma to his vertebrae. He was flown by medical helicopter to a hospital and died the next day from his injuries. A group of 40 elementary schoolchildren was walking by the cage when the incident occurred.

September 18, 2008/Mentone, Alabama: A cougar escaped from a cage at Lookout Mountain Wild Animal Park and attacked a black leopard’s foot through the fence of an enclosure. The cougar was shot and killed in order to get him to release his hold on the leopard’s paw.

August 19, 2008/Washoe County, Nevada: Two black leopards were found on the roof of a private home after they apparently jumped a 12-foot fence while the owners were out of town. Authorities tranquilized both leopards, and they were taken to the local animal shelter.

August 19, 2008/West Palm Beach, Florida: An adult lion and an adult tiger escaped from a cage overnight at McCarthy’s Wildlife Sanctuary. Three schools in the area were on lockdown while officers from the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission and the Palm Beach County Sheriff’s Office searched for the animals, who were both located the next day, tranquilized, and returned to cages.

August 5, 2008/Richmond, Illinois: During a rehearsal for a circus performance, a tiger at the Hawthorn Corporation circus training facility attacked a man, knocking him to the ground, face down, and grabbing him by the neck. The man sustained deep puncture wounds and several scratches to his upper body, neck, and knee. Others present during the attack hit the animal with wooden poles in order to get him to release the victim. Paramedics transported the man to the hospital, where he stayed for five or six days. It was the second time the man had been attacked by a tiger at the facility.

August 4, 2008/Branson, Missouri: A 16-year-old worker at Predator World was left a quadriplegic after he was attacked by three tigers when he went into the enclosure to photograph the animals for a visitor. One of the tigers jumped on the victim and knocked him to the ground before the two other animals joined the attack and dragged him to a water pool. Staff members used a fire extinguisher to deter the cats and pulled the teen from the cage. He was airlifted to the hospital and listed in critical condition with severe trauma to his neck and airway as well as a serious laceration on his leg.

August 3, 2008/Warren County, Missouri: A volunteer at the Wesa-A-Geh-Ya exotic-animal farm was attacked by an 800-pound tiger while cleaning cages. The man was standing on top of a cage when a tiger scaled the 12- to 14-foot chain-link fence and grabbed him. The victim’s leg had much of the skin stripped off down to the bare bone, and he was flown by air ambulance to the hospital, where he underwent two surgeries to amputate his lower leg. The facility owners, who initially tried to cover up the incident by claiming that the victim had been attacked by a pit bull, shot and wounded the tiger during the attack and then later shot and killed him.

July 14, 2008/El Paso County, Colorado: El Paso County Sheriff’s deputies searched for an African lion who was spotted running loose by two witnesses, one of whom saw the lion chase several dogs through a field. Photographs confirmed that the animal was indeed an African lion, and the Sheriff’s Office concluded that the animal was likely an escaped “pet.”

May 24, 2008/South Bend, Indiana: A keeper at the Potawatomi Zoo was attacked by a leopard while cleaning an off-exhibit holding area. She was taken to a hospital by ambulance to be treated for her injuries.

May 24, 2008/Detroit, Michigan: A keeper at the Detroit Zoo was attacked by a lion while transferring the animals inside for the evening. He fended the animal off with pepper spray and was treated at a nearby hospital, where he received stitches for his injuries.

May 19, 2008/Neosho, Missouri: A black leopard approached a woman hanging laundry in her yard and then clawed at the door to her home when she retreated inside. The cat then charged a sheriff’s deputy who arrived on the scene, ran past him, and turned around and charged again before being killed by several shots from the deputy’s rifle and Glock handgun. Authorities speculated that the cat was a “pet” who had escaped or been abandoned.

May 11, 2008/Toledo, Ohio: A keeper at the Toledo Zoo sustained three lacerations to his chest after a 5-year-old tiger reached through a double mesh barrier and clawed him. He was treated at a nearby hospital.

May 5, 2008/Miami, Florida: Mark McCarthy, owner of McCarthy’s Wildlife Sanctuary, was bitten by an adult tiger during a photo shoot for a music video. The tiger began to choke and became panicked when a chain tightened around her neck and body. McCarthy sustained bone-deep puncture wounds to his calf while attempting to free the chain, which ultimately had to be cut to be removed. He was treated by paramedics at the scene.

March 29, 2008/Wellington, Florida: The owner of Panther Ridge Conservation Center was attacked by two cheetahs while conducting an exhibition inside the cage during a fundraising event. She was pinned down by the cheetahs, who then bit and clawed at her for 10 minutes before she could be removed from the cage and airlifted to a hospital. She sustained 40 puncture wounds to her back, arms, and legs.

March 24, 2008/Las Vegas, Nevada: A panther who was likely being kept as a “pet” attacked a dog in the backyard of a home in a residential area. Police attempted to shoot the panther, but the animal escaped.

February 21, 2008/Honolulu, Hawaii: A 245-pound tiger escaped from an enclosure at the Honolulu Zoo when a zookeeper failed to secure two gates in the exhibit. During the 20 to 25 minutes that he was on the loose, the tiger walked past a volunteer and into an open area of the zoo, where nothing but a 4-foot fence separated him from the wider public areas of the zoo, including a playground.

February 10, 2008/West Palm Beach, Florida: A Palm Beach Zoo employee was bitten by a tiger during a training session. The worker was taken to a local hospital for treatment.

February 9, 2008/Davenport, Florida: A volunteer was clawed by a tiger while cleaning a cage at Horseshoe Creek Wildlife Foundation. The woman sustained minor injuries when the tiger swiped at her leg.

February 2008/West Palm Beach, Florida: A zookeeper at the Palm Beach Zoo had her finger nipped by Mata, a 3-year-old tiger, while she was training the animal. The keeper was taken to the emergency room and held overnight so that a hand surgeon could fix her finger.

January 20, 2008/Cedar Creek, Texas: A volunteer at the Capital of Texas Zoo was bitten by a cougar when she reached into the pen to pet the animal. The cougar gripped her arm and the girl sustained a broken thumb and bites that required stitches. She was the second person to be bitten by this animal. (See 2007/Cedar Creek, Texas.)

January 10, 2008/San Francisco, California: A 90-pound snow leopard at the San Francisco Zoo nearly escaped after he chewed or tore through a steel mesh wall that separated the feeding cage from a zookeeper service area. The animal created a hole large enough to get his leg and head through.

December 27, 2007/Manitowoc, Wisconsin: Two cougars escaped from the Lincoln Park Zoo when the fencing of the cage was cut by vandals. The animals were on the loose for approximately two hours before being located, tranquilized, and returned to the cage.

December 25, 2007/San Francisco, California: A 300-pound tiger escaped from an enclosure at the San Francisco Zoo, which was surrounded by a 20-foot-wide moat and a 12½-foot-high wall. She attacked three visitors, quickly killing a teenager and following the other two male victims—a teenager and an adult—for 300 yards before mauling them. The two survivors sustained deep bites and claw cuts on their heads, necks, arms, and hands, and both underwent surgery for their wounds. The tiger was shot and killed by police. This was the same tiger who ripped the flesh off a zookeeper’s arm approximately one year before (see December 22, 2006/San Francisco, California).

December 3, 2007/Acton, California: A 4-year-old male tiger mauled a caretaker who was cleaning an enclosure at the Shambala Preserve. The man sustained multiple bite wounds and was airlifted to a hospital, where he was listed in critical condition.

November 19, 2007/Pike County, Ohio: A 550-pound “pet” lion belonging to Terry Brumfield escaped from a cage and onto a nearby highway, where he chased and attacked passing cars. The State Highway Patrol and the Pike County Sheriff’s Department responded to the call. Brumfield ultimately lured the lion back to the cage.

November 19, 2007/Saint Louis, Missouri: A portion of the Saint Louis Zoo was evacuated when a 1-year-old cheetah scaled a wall at least 10 feet high and got into an area intended to separate animals from people and was loose for nearly half an hour. The incident marked the third time since 2000 that a cheetah has escaped at this zoo.

November 14, 2007/New Hampton, Iowa: A “pet” tiger escaped from a cage by rushing past the owner at feeding time and attacked and mauled the family’s dog. When the dog ran toward cars from the local sheriff’s department and the tiger followed, a deputy sheriff shot and killed the tiger through a partially opened window of his vehicle.

October 1, 2007/Pahrump, Nevada: A cougar escaped from a holding pen at Running Wild animal compound and attacked a volunteer who entered the enclosure with a bucket of meat. The woman was knocked to the ground by the cougar and bitten on the neck, back, hands, and arms. The cougar stopped the attack when emergency sirens approached the facility.

July 14, 2007/San Antonio, Texas: A keeper who forgot to close a gate was attacked by a 250-pound tiger at the San Antonio Zoo. The tiger knocked the man down, dragged him, and bit him on the head several times before the keeper managed to escape by spraying the animal with pepper spray. The keeper was airlifted to the hospital with serious injuries to his head, neck, and arm.

July 6, 2007/Marion County, Arkansas: A man was injured by one of his 5½-year-old “pet” cougars as he was cleaning the cage. The male cougar knocked the man to the ground and bit him on the back of the neck, head, and leg. He was taken to the hospital and treated for his injuries.

February 24, 2007/Denver, Colorado: A keeper at the Denver Zoo was attacked and bitten on the neck by a 140-pound jaguar in a service hallway adjacent to the enclosure for the animals. The woman sustained extensive internal injuries and died at the hospital of a broken neck. The jaguar was shot and killed during the incident.

January 21, 2007/San Angelo, Texas: A woman sought hospital treatment after she was bitten by a 10-week-old African lion cub exhibited by G.W. Exotic Animal Foundation at a mall where patrons were allowed to pet and interact with the lion.

January 5, 2007/Center Point, Indiana: An 80-pound cougar scaled a 14-foot fence and escaped from an enclosure at the Exotic Feline Rescue Center. More than two months later, she was still on the loose.

2007/Cedar Creek, Texas: A volunteer at the Capital of Texas Zoo was bitten by a cougar when she reached into the pen to pet the animal.

December 22, 2006/San Francisco, California: A keeper at the San Francisco Zoo was attacked by a 350-pound tiger who reached through the bars of the cage and grabbed the woman. The keeper sustained deep lacerations to her arms, which required surgery and may have resulted in the loss of one arm. A zoo visitor who witnessed the attack described what she saw: “The right arm was in the tiger’s mouth …. The left arm was just being held there (in the claws) and the right arm was being eaten. She was screaming and flailing away.” The tiger released the woman when other zookeepers jabbed the tiger in the head with a pole.

December 22, 2006/Washington, D.C.: A clouded leopard at the National Zoo escaped a cage through a hole in the fence and ventured onto zoo grounds. Visitors were evacuated while zoo employees surrounded the cat with nets and tranquilizer guns, sedated her, and returned her to the cage.

November 24, 2006/Evansville, Indiana: Animal trainer Wade Burck was clawed by a tiger during a performance of the Hadi Shrine circus. Burck received hospital treatment, including stitches, for wounds to his left forearm and leg.

November 18, 2006/Coral Gables, Florida: A 4-year-old girl was mauled by a 62-pound cougar at a children’s birthday party. The cat took the child’s head into her mouth, inflicting severe cuts to the girl’s eyelid, cheek, and ear, and requiring surgical reattachment of part of her severed ear. The cougar had been provided by Wild Animal World and was killed to be tested for rabies. The proprietor of Wild Animal World had been cited at least twice previously for similar attacks.

November 14, 2006/Gulf Breeze, Florida: Two 150-pound cougars escaped through a hole in the fence of the pen and were loose for nearly three hours at The Zoo. The facility was closed and visitors were moved to secured areas while a search, aided by a sheriff’s office helicopter using infrared cameras, was conducted for the cougars. Both were ultimately tranquilized and returned to the cage.

November 13, 2006/Gulf Breeze, Florida: A keeper at The Zoo was bitten by a leopard and sustained wounds on her hand.

October 16, 2006/Copley Township, Ohio: A veterinarian with the USDA was attacked by a tiger during an inspection at the L&L Exotic Animal Farm. The tiger reached outside the cage, grabbed the woman’s arm, pulled her toward the cage, and got her arm into her mouth. She was treated at the hospital for scratches and bruising.

October 16, 2006/Fleetwood, North Carolina: A woman who attempted to pet a leopard at the New River Zoo was bitten on the arm and wrist, sustaining injuries that required surgery. The woman alleged that the owner of the zoo had encouraged her to pet the animal. The leopard was euthanized.

October 6, 2006/Hesperia, California: A 500-pound tiger escaped from a cage at the Cinema Safari Zoo when zoo workers failed to lock the cage during cleaning. Because the zoo did not have the proper equipment on hand to tranquilize a tiger, the animal was on the loose for hours, during which time he attacked a donkey, biting the animal’s neck and a leg. When the proper equipment was obtained, the tiger was tranquilized and returned to the cage.

September 12, 2006/Balm, Florida: Lancelot Kollmann, owner of an animal business called Sir Lance A Lot, was attacked by a 250-pound tiger while cleaning a cage. His lower lip was split in two, requiring 25 stitches, and the side of one arm, which was sliced down to the bone, required five stitches and a drainage shunt.

August 22, 2006/Tampa, Florida: Enshala, a 180-pound Sumatran tiger at the Lowry Park Zoo, escaped an enclosure 15 minutes before closing time and was loose for 50 minutes when an unlocked latch allowed her access to an empty exhibit that was under renovation. Zoo visitors were moved to safety in the zoo’s restaurants or sent home as a 10-person weapons team assembled. Enshala became agitated when she was shot with a tranquilizer dart, causing her to lurch at a zoo veterinarian as well as a 7-foot wall separating her from public areas. She was ultimately killed by zoo president Lex Salisbury, who shot her four times with a 12-gauge shotgun.
July 18, 2006/Ballston Spa, New York: A 4-year-old boy was clawed by an adult tiger displayed by the Ashville Game Farm and Exotic Zoo at the Saratoga County Fair. The child was sitting next to a cage while having his photo taken with a baby kangaroo when the tiger reached out and clawed him. The boy was treated at the hospital and received 14 stitches for a 1-inch gash on his head.

June 16, 2006/Kaufman County, Texas: A part-time employee at Zoo Dynamics, an animal facility owned by Marcus Cook, was chased and mauled by a 300-pound tiger who climbed out of an uncovered enclosure. The tiger grabbed the man and threw him down, ripped off his ear, and left severe claw marks all over his body. The man spent the weekend in intensive care and received some 2,000 stitches. The employee in charge took the victim to the hospital without notifying local authorities that a tiger was still loose on the premises and recaptured the animal upon his return.
